Dear Parent/Carer

As you know, Ofsted visited us on the 16th and 17th March, spending two days very long days in school. I am now able to share that our school remains a good school, despite all of the recent changes made to education and the difficulties of Covid-19.

Ofsted is very much a team effort – that team includes everyone from our school community. I would like to thank everyone who contributed to the surveys, either by supporting their children to complete them or by taking the time to fill out the parent survey. The responses were described as ‘overwhelmingly positive’.

As you know, this year is the first year that we have been able to teach the curriculum in the way that we had planned to do so (we originally introduced the curriculum in Sept 20). Mrs Thomas described our curriculum as ‘clear and coherent’ and appropriate for our school and our children. She recognised that, due to Covid-19, the children have not had the opportunity to build on previous knowledge and make links to prior learning in the way in which we had initially planned. This will now become the school’s target for the next four years; a target that we are more than happy with as this was already in our future plans.

If I ever want to find out what is really happening in school, I ask the children – so did the inspector! As ever, the children were our school’s strongest advocates. In her feedback to myself and Mrs Woodford (which lasted for almost 90 minutes!), Mrs Thomas quoted the children constantly. She was particularly taken by a Y6 child who said that he was ‘so glad I moved to Southwick. It’s a kind and friendly place and if you have a problem, it’ll be sorted out straight away!’ The personal welfare and development of the children was identified as a strength of the school.

I have attached a copy of the report to this communication; it is also available on the school website. If you would prefer to have a paper copy, please let Mrs O’Brien know so that we can organise one for you.

Thank you again for all your support.

Yours sincerely,

L. Shellard

Inspection of a good school: Southwick Church of England Primary School

Hollis Way, Southwick, Trowbridge, Wiltshire BA14 9PH

Inspection dates: 16 and 17 March 2022

Outcome

Southwick Church of England Primary School continues to be a good school.

What is it like to attend this school?

Pupils are proud to attend their school. They describe the school as being a 'kind and friendly' place. Pupils are happy and safe. They say that bullying does not happen as staff help them to resolve friendship issues quickly. Parents and carers describe the school as a 'caring community'.

Pupils behave well. They follow the school's values in all that they do. They are polite and show each other and adults respect. They learn to celebrate difference. Staff help pupils to develop an awareness of how to care for others. For example, the school council organises 'Foodbank Friday' collections.

Each year, leaders plan pupils' personal development carefully. Pupils appreciate the enriching experiences available for them to try. They enjoy a wide range of clubs, such as lunchtime sports clubs with coaches. Year 6 pupils say their residential visit gives them confidence and inspiration to try new things.

Staff encourage pupils to take on roles of responsibility. For example, pupils represent the school as elected members of the Trowbridge Youth Parliament. They know they can make a difference in the future. Pupils are well prepared for the next stage of education.

What does the school do well and what does it need to do better?

Leaders and staff are ambitious for pupils. They are determined that all pupils read well. This begins with the teaching of phonics in the early years. Staff have a secure knowledge of phonics. They spot, quickly and correctly, when pupils need extra practice. The youngest pupils read books that closely match the phonics they learn. Staff help pupils build their reading speed and accuracy successfully.

Class books are selected carefully by teachers to interest and engage pupils in reading. Visits from children's authors and regular library sessions encourage pupils to develop a love of reading.

The school's curriculum is clearly sequenced. Leaders have thought about the needs of their school community. They have identified the essential knowledge pupils must know and remember from the early years to Year 6. Leaders have broken down this knowledge into small, achievable steps. This enables teachers to check who has secured their knowledge. For example, pupils are asked to explain their mathematical thinking using the correct mathematical vocabulary. Pupils use secure knowledge, such as times tables, to help them to answer mathematical questions well.

Across the wider curriculum, pupils are beginning to know more and remember more. However, they are not always able to link important concepts. For example, in history, Year 4 pupils remember some facts about the Great Fire of London in 1666. Nevertheless, they cannot recall important historical details, such as Samuel Pepys' diary, as a useful source of evidence.

Pupils with special educational needs and/or disabilities achieve well. Staff identify their additional needs accurately. They work with external agencies to adapt the curriculum and put effective support in place quickly.

Staff care for pupils' well-being. Some pupils displayed high levels of anxiety when they returned to school following the second national lockdown. Staff work with parents and carers to help pupils recognise and manage their feelings well. They support families to overcome any issues stopping their children from attending school. Staff teach pupils how to be physically and mentally healthy. Leaders are proactive in their support of pupils' social and emotional needs. This is a strength of the school.

The school has a calm and orderly environment. There are clear routines, and staff have high expectations for pupils' behaviour. In the Reception Year, children are shown how to get along with others. They quickly gain the skills they need to learn and play together well.

Leaders, including governors, have a thorough knowledge of the school's strengths and areas for improvement. They prioritise the right training to ensure that the school's curriculum and staff's subject knowledge are continuously developing. Leaders support staff's well-being. Staff appreciate this support. They are proud to work at this school.

Safeguarding

The arrangements for safeguarding are effective.

Leaders complete the necessary checks before staff begin working at the school. Regular training and updates support staff to carry out their safeguarding roles and responsibilities appropriately.

Staff know how to report concerns about pupils' safety and welfare. They are confident that leaders follow up on any concerns. Referrals to external agencies are made in a timely manner. Leaders are not afraid to escalate concerns with external agencies if they believe the support offered could be improved.

Pupils know how to keep themselves safe. This includes online safety.

What does the school need to do to improve?

(Information for the school and appropriate authority)

- In some subjects, pupils do not make links between important concepts well enough. This makes it difficult to build on prior knowledge. Teachers need to check and strengthen pupils' knowledge of these key concepts to help them make connections within and across subjects.

Background

When we have judged a school to be good, we will then normally go into the school about once every four years to confirm that the school remains good. This is called a section 8 inspection of a good or outstanding school, because it is carried out under section 8 of the Education Act 2005. We do not give graded judgements on a section 8 inspection. However, if we find evidence that a school would now receive a higher or lower grade, then the next inspection will be a section 5 inspection. Usually this is within one to two years of the date of the section 8 inspection. If we have serious concerns about safeguarding, behaviour or the quality of education, we will deem the section 8 inspection as a section 5 inspection immediately.

This is the first section 8 inspection since we judged the school to be good in December 2016.

How can I feed back my views?

You can use Ofsted Parent View to give Ofsted your opinion on your child's school, or to find out what other parents and carers think. We use information from Ofsted Parent View when deciding which schools to inspect, when to inspect them and as part of their inspection.

The Department for Education has further guidance on how to complain about a school.

If you are the school and you are not happy with the inspection or the report, you can complain to Ofsted.

Further information

You can search for published performance information about the school.

In the report, 'disadvantaged pupils' refers to those pupils who attract government pupil premium funding: pupils claiming free school meals at any point in the last six years and pupils in care or who left care through adoption or another formal route.

Information about this school

- The school does not use any alternative providers.

Information about this inspection

- This was the first routine inspection the school received since the COVID-19 pandemic began. The inspector discussed the impact of the pandemic with leaders and has taken that into account in her evaluation of the school.
- The inspector met with the headteacher, staff, pupils, governors, including the chair of the local governing board, and representatives from Wiltshire County Council.
- The inspector listened to pupils from Years 1, 2 and 3 read to a known adult.
- The inspector carried out deep dives in these subjects: reading, mathematics and history. For each deep dive, the inspector discussed the curriculum with subject leaders, looked at curriculum plans, visited a sample of lessons, spoke to teachers, spoke to some pupils about their learning and looked at samples of pupils' work.
- The inspector reviewed the school's safeguarding documentation, including records of safeguarding checks carried out on staff working at the school. She considered how well the designated safeguarding lead acts on concerns about pupils' safety and welfare. The inspector spoke to pupils, staff and governors about safeguarding practices.

- The inspector considered the responses to the online survey, Ofsted Parent View. She also took into consideration the responses to the surveys for staff and pupils.
